COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

This appears to be the year that wooden bridges are giving trouble. A bridge with 36 foot span over Pleasant River on Edmund Smith's road has been completely rebuilt. Mr. Smith assisted on this project by contributing material. A small bridge on the Osgood Road was rebuilt, with a larger one on the same road to be rebuilt later this year. P. H. Chadbourne is contributing the stringers for this bridge. A small bridge at the further end of the Grover Hill Road was replanked. A bridge with a 27' span over Alder River on the Rabbit Road so-called is to be rebuilt in July with new stringers and plank. The bridge with a 12' span over the brook on the old road leading off the Grover Hill Road near the residence of Cleve Waterhouse is to be rebuilt in the very near future. One bridge on the Chase Road so-called was replanked.

Of the seven bridges listed above four are located on so-called abandoned roads or roads not generally used by the public. Locally they are town ways having never been discontinued. The principal use of this type road is to provide access to timberlands for logging and pulp operations.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

An open telephone line is as important to you as an open door

No matter what your business, the telephone serves as a front door to many of your customers. When your line is busy, it's the same as locking your front door. A continued busy signal keeps your customers out and sends them elsewhere to buy.

If your present telephone is always busy, perhaps you need one or two additional lines. A call by our business office is all it takes to find out.

V. A. NEWS LETTER

The amount of annual income will determine the size of the pension payment or whether or not there will be any pension payment at all under the new law which goes into effect July 1, 1960.

Dr. Joseph S. Weltman, manager of the Veterans Administration Center, says:

All wages, salaries, profits, interest, and dividends will be considered income. So will retirement pensions, annuities, and Social Security payments.

In fact, all money received must be counted as income except these eight classifications:

1. The compensation or pension payments received from the VA.

2. Donations from private or public relief or welfare sources.

3. Government life insurance payments and payments of servicemen's indemnity.

4. Payments by the Armed Forces of the six months death gratuity.

5. Social Security lump sum death payments.

6. Payments from public or private retirement, annuity or endowment plans up to the amount equal to the money contributed or paid in by the veteran or dependent in order to become eligible for the plan.

After contributions have been recovered all of the pension or annuity is counted as income.

7. Proceeds of fire insurance policies.

There is an additional exception for the widow or children of a deceased veteran:

8. The money expended for the burial of the veteran as well as any money expended to pay off his just debts may be deducted from income reports.

Under the new pension system, effective July 1, 1960, veterans of dependents cannot waive any part or all of a pension, annuity or endowment in order to qualify for VA pension payments under the income limitations.

Full information on any phase of the pension program may be obtained at the Veterans Administration Center, Togus, Maine; Veterans Administration office, 171 Middle Street, Portland, Maine; or at Veterans Administration Office, 95 Harlow Street, Bangor, Maine.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

A most interesting bill has been placed before Congress by Rep. William Tuck of Virginia.

This measure, if passed, would make it illegal to force an employer to accept a union as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees.

It is a "featherbedding" bill, that is, a bill that would make it illegal to force an employer to accept a union as the exclusive bargaining agent for all employees.

Actually, labor leaders who are forcing unneeded workers on employers are in effect creating the same type of socialism that Benito Mussolini created in Italy.

In fact, there are perhaps more parallels to the present Italian situation than it is palatable to dwell upon.

Then, and now, the economy of Italy had drifted into a hopeless condition where a few big cartels owned practically everything.

This, of course, did not serve the best interests of the bulk of the population, and lacking a small independent class of business to furnish employment, there was a scarcity of jobs.

So the Italian system, started by Mussolini, was for the government to run down the list of employers and arbitrarily telling each employer how many additional employees he should put on the payroll.

Naturally, this raised the cost of Italian goods and services with the result Italy was not very competitive in the European market.

But powerful union leaders, not held in check by government, and in fact supported by National Labor Relations Board, does these things, and in some areas, these labor leaders have the power as the legislative level to get some of these "featherbedding" measures made into law.

So it gets more and more down to the basic fact that it is not important to find out who killed "Red" Hiss, but to find out who is preventing him from getting a job.

Thus, Rep. Tuck's bill is important in many ways. It is a bill that business management is relieved to its right to manage. It is also a bill that unions are prevented from using their government and upon building of business in every field.

"...and I was worrying about being late!"

On the road, think only about your driving! When everything seems to depend on making time, remember this. Many of the 37,000 people killed in traffic accidents last year were putting time before safety when death put an end to both for them. 3 out of 10 such fatal accidents involved speeding drivers. So stop worrying about saving minutes; think about driving to save lives. One may be your own!

Where traffic laws are obeyed and enforced, deaths go down! Published in an effort to save lives, in cooperation with the National Safety Council and The Advertising Council.
